This book should be very valuable

This book of illustrations of ornamental also Br. Aldermen Mythological and historical figures was given to me by Frank C Locke who operated the pottery at Mentown Pa. after it had been bought from the people who started a canning factory on that site.

Frank C Locke had German partner when they first started. They operated only a year or two when they separated. Their first kiln was shaped like the long tapered lamp chimneys.

Not being successful Locke got a number of local residents to form a company which bought the land between S. State St. and S Chancellor St. where the present building was erected and the regular shaped kiln was built. Locke's father was superintendent of the Royal Worcester China Works, at Worcester Eng. which was a large section of the city. Locke expected to be successful and have the entire lot filled with houses for workmen + factory buildings, but alas it did not turn out that way. I took to work up the history of this plant which now 1-23-1958 has been operated by Walter Rickerby + others from Trenton NJ
